EAT DRINK AND BE JOLLY

A Little History

Rum has its roots in the West Indies, with records dating back to Barbados in 1650. Initially referred to as 'kill-devil' or 'Rumbullion', by 1667 it was simply known as 'Rum'.

A distilled alcohol crafted by fermenting and then distilling sugarcane molasses or sugarcane juice.

Hailing from Jamaica, Barbados, & Demerara, Guyana, the oldest type of rum is characterised by its heavy, dark & full-bodied profile, boasting a robust molasses flavour.

In the late 19th century, the production of dry, light-bodied rum emerged, boasting a pale hue & mild flavour. Meanwhile, gold-label rum, with its amber colour & sweeter taste, results from longer ageing & the addition of caramel.
